The 'Europeana Connect' project is coordinated by the Austrian National Library, www.onb.at

The flowcharts on this poster are used to build the Public Domain Calculator, available at www.outofcopyright.eu. The Calculator does not yet take into account the European directive extending the term of protection from 50 to 70 years for performers and sound recordings, adopted on 12th September 2011. For any questions or suggestions, please use the contact information at www.outofcopyright.eu

Disclaimer
 The Public Domain Calculator is not intended to replace the case-by-case assessment by a legal expert of the public domain status of a copyrighted work or other protected subject matter. Please be aware that a work is often subject to multiple and different layers of rights, hence it may be necessary to use the Calculator several times to establish that all relevant rights have expired. The Calculator is intended to provide the public domain status of examined material exclusively in the selected jurisdiction. Please note that the public domain status of subject matter may differ between jurisdictions. In relation to neighbouring or related rights (i.e. rights over performances, phonograms, the first fixation of a film and broadcast), the Calculator only applies when at least one of the right-holders is a national of an EEA state, with the exception of Switzerland, where the Calculator only applies when at least one of the right-holders is a Swiss national. The Calculator does not cover questions of authors' or performers' moral rights.
